COLE PLEADS GUILTY.

Charles P. Cole, formerly casher for the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Company in this city, indicted by the grand jury upon the charge of embezzling $4,200, entered a plea of guilty in the Corporation Court this afternoon and was sentenced for one year in the penitentiary at Richmond. Cole will be carried to the penitentiary at once. With good behavior the accused will be released upon a conditional pardon after serving six months of his sentence. The circumstances of the case and the story of the downfall of Cole appealed not only to those who in the past had been his closest friends, but to Commonwealth's Attorney John G. Tilion and to the bonding company which started the prosecution, and it was agreed to permit Cole to plead guilty and take one year without a formal trial. The Southern Bell Telephone Company has been reimbursed in full on Cole's shortage, and friends of the prisoner have arranged to reimburse the bonding company so far as they can.

How a Few Cents Count

The vital wearing points of a shoe are: the outer-sole, inner-sole, counter, and upper-the muscle and bone of shoe service.

The counter is hidden from view; the inner-sole is seldom examined; and the quality of the outer-sole is obscured by paint or other material used in

How, then, can the purchaser judge what service he is going to get? He must look into the birthplace of the shoe-the conditions under which it was made.

Good seed cost little more than poor seed: but there is a big difference when you gather the crop.

A saving to the manufacturer of a cent or two taken out of the counter, inner-sole, or outer-sole, means a ten-fold loss to the consumer. Six or seven cents added to the quality of the material makes a great difference in the service of the shoe. And yet the manufacturer can add to or take this much from the material, and you can't tell the difference until you have worn the shoes.

If economies are introduced into any shoe plant reducing the expense and waste items by say five or six cents a pair, isn't it easy to see how that plant can make better shoes for a given price?

That is just how Craddock-Terry Co., of Lynchburg, Va., make better shoes than their competitors.

Economy at every point! Their shoe plant is the largest in the South; is a model one as to equipment and management—no waste; they are after a large volume of business on a small percentage of profit, rather than a small business on a large margin of profit. Expense per pair is less this way. But above all this, their plant is in Lynchburg, a most wonderful district.

Living is cheap, and Labor doesn't cost so much. Its workmen are intelligent, willing, and ambitious, for the employer, rather than against him; and numerous other items entering into the cost of the shoe are smaller. Economies which seldom attain in the congested districts North and

One man, Mr. Williams, is known to have killed more than any other two huntsmen. He has already killed 185. He will go every time alone, staying not more than an hour, returning with as many as he wanted.

How he did it no one knew, or would he toil. Finally he was watched, and yesterday the zegret got out.

He had thrue Waterbury watches. He would get into the woods, go to two hickohy trees where the squirrels feed. He would wind the watches up, put them in a small tin can and to each can a string. Then each was tied to the limb of a tree. Then he would get in some sociuded spot. As the watches would tick away the noise was like that of a squirrel cutting a nut and could be heard for a great distance. Every squirrel in the neighborhood would be drawn to the trees where they supposed their companions were having a big feast. In this way every squirrel has been killed by being decoyed in those two trees by this new device.

Mr. Williams says he has seen as many as six at a time running around the limbs where the watches were fastened. Often they would get so crazy they would fall from the limbs.
